Bruce Eats Local

Food is the fibre that binds the local communities together. Eating local means supporting and encouraging local business. Not only is it more fresh, flavourful, and healthy, it usually comes with a story and a face of those who produced it.

Grey Bruce is home to hundreds of different products grown and processed here. When up at the cottage or just visiting for the weekend, be sure to use this guide to find local fare. Ask "What's local?" when you dine out.

Destination Not Required

The great thing about meandering to nowhere in particular in Bruce County is that you can't help but arrive somewhere specific, like say at an isolated beach, gorgeous vista or shop in the quaintest of communities. The landscape changes frequently, forever punctuated with snapshots such as forest-topped cliffs, fields of birds and elegant stone ruins. From the flat, sandy west coast to the rocky cliffs of the east coast, you can't ask for a better place. But should you want a mission, look to the next page for touring suggestions and "cool stops". And be sure to ask for our free Grey-Bruce Visitor Map.

Big White

If there's snow in the forecast, chances are it's falling in the Bruce. Thanks to the "lake effect", snowfall is generous, often arriving early in the season and staying late as well. As part of the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs, our District 9 has 2400 km of groomed trails and an abundance of sled-friendly communities. Pick a home base for out-and-back day trips, saddle bag it community-to-community, or consider a long distance looped excursion. www.ridegreybruce.com

Snowshoeing at Hope Bay - Justin Kraemer

◀ Bruce Loves Winter 43

Cross-Country Skiing

The folks in Bruce County have a passion for cross-country skiing. They've formed ski clubs, secured land for use, and developed trail networks. Most trails are track-set and a few include groomed laneways for skate-skiing. There are also marked routes for backcountry exploration.

For trail conditions and passes (required at Sawmill Ski Trail, Sauble, and Colpoys), call Suntrail Source For Adventure, 519-935-2478.

Snowshoeing

The real, true-blue, great Canadian snowshoe experience awaits. Snowfall in the Bruce is abundant. Untracked trails are plentiful, as are scenic rewards. An afternoon trek can lead to a cliff edge with a lookout, down to a cave, past an icefall, amidst animal tracks galore. Follow the Bruce Trail or pick a park. For snowshoe rentals, contact our year-round outfitters (see pg 13).

Winter Camping

In Bruce County, winter camping needn't be a cold experience. Indeed, with the rental of a yurt at MacGregor Point Provincial Park, the experience can be warm and cozy. The park's yurts are small, insulated huts with electric heat and bunk beds. Each comes with an outdoor barbecue. In addition, the park's nearby comfort station is heated and provides hot showers. Of course, if that sounds too cushy for your adventurous spirit, come instead to Bruce Peninsula National Park, the perfect place to do the real thing.

To book a yurt: 888-ONT-PARK, www.ontarioparks.com. For camping reservations at Bruce Peninsula National Park: 877-737-3783, www.pccamping.ca.

Bruce County Museum & Cultural Centre - explorethebruce.com

Fueling The Mind

A good museum tweaks curiosity, spawns appreciation and gives knowledge — all you have to do is walk in the door. Prominently among Bruce's collection of wondrous museums is the $11.1 million, state-of-the-art Bruce County Museum and Cultural Centre, opened in 2005 in Southampton. Also relatively new and notable is the Parks Canada Visitor Centre in Tobermory with its high-definition theatre, various exhibits and 20-metre-high viewing tower.

Mingling the past with the present, the museum uses modern and interactive techniques to showcase a thousand years and more of history in Bruce County. From the ice age to the military, and from aboriginal tools to the telephone, the museum is the ticket to great insight to the land and the people of the Bruce. A new exhibit opening this summer looks at global warming. Another, for kids, presents the wonder of patterns in nature. Featured on the big screen is Bruce County – A Time to Dream. Don't miss it.
